

The Interaction of Ergonomics and Behavioral Safety

Douglas G. Niemtschk and Mark Graham
DynMcDermott Petroleum Operations Company
Strategic Petroleum Reserves
850 South Clearview Parkway
New Orleans, LA 70123

(504) 734-4379

douglas.niemtschk@spr.doe.gov

The interrelation of DynMcDermott's Ergonomics and Behavioral Safety observation process can be measured by quantifying the number of "at-risk" ergonomic behaviors observed vs. the number and type of controls recommended by the ergonomic assessments. This presentation discusses the relationship of these two programs and their overall effectiveness in mitigating identified ergonomic hazards through a systematic exchange of information.